

MEET THE GLOBAL CAMPUS ALUMNI WORKING ON CLIMATE JUSTICE AND THE RIGHTS OF FUTURE GENERATIONS ACROSS OUR NETWORKS

Within the framework of the Global Campus Alumni, and considering the recent interest around climate justice, which is taking shape under the GC - Right Livelihood (RL) partnership, we have been working on a new, multi-year initiative around climate justice and the rights of future generations. The initiative will facilitate networking and exchanges among alumni interested in the topic, enable activities which focus on raising the awareness of the general alumni and engaging them in these topics, and launching various activities across our network. Explore more about the participants in this initiative by reading-on.

First, introducing the GCA

The Global Campus Alumni (GCA) is the network that unites all alumni of the Global Campus of Human Rights in its eight regions. More than 4,200 experts, activists and academics around the world, united under one motto: Together for Human Rights. The GCA builds connections, creates opportunities, and shares expertise among GC graduates. Through connecting with the GCA, they can rekindle memories and experiences; find fellow graduates across the globe, develop their professional skills, and exchange with colleagues shaping human rights practice and working in diverse roles. Meet the GCA team:

Manuela Pegoraro. Academic Partnerships Manager, Global Campus of Human Rights.

Manuela supports the consolidation and growth of the Global Campus international network, including its 100+ members and partners. She manages cross-regional activities such as the International Conference and the Global Classroom, hosted each year by one of our regional hubs.

Manuela works closely with the Academic Director in the coordination of the Academic Affairs Committee, ensuring it serves as a platform for new global initiatives and joint ownership. She is also the editor of the Global Campus Annual Reports and assists with institutional communication. Manuela has 15+ years of experience in education, communication and project management. She previously worked for an agency of the European Commission and in academic and non-profit organisations in Europe, the USA and the Middle East. She has managed professional networks and multinational project teams, and led the development of tech and multimedia projects. Manuela holds a Master's degree in E-learning from the University of Florence and a Master's degree in Cultural Management from the University of Northumbria at Newcastle. She is also a PRINCE2 certified Project Manager.

Hazem Mized, GCA coordinator and an alumnus of the Global Campus Arab World.

I find it interesting how all our struggles for human rights intersect with our own psychology and social sociology, which I studied in my BA. I try to combine that background with communications and coordination to advocate for human rights in innovative ways. Prior to working as the coordinator of the GCA network, I worked as the regional child rights coordinator for the Global Campus Arab world in Beirut (I'm an ARMA Alumnus), and as the coordinator of the Investment Program for Resilience with UNDP in Jerusalem, Palestine.

Tijana Bauer, intern at the Global Campus of Human Rights and alumna of GC Europe.

Tijana is finishing her last year of Master's degree studies at Ca' Foscari University of Venice, specializing in Comparative International Relations, with a special focus on Global Studies. Prior to this, she completed her Bachelor's degree studies in International Relations at the Faculty of Political Science at University of Belgrade. Her academic journey has been complemented by a keen interest in geopolitics and terrorism research, alongside practical experience in event organizing.

Alongside this, she has also previously worked on the issues of the gender aspect of security in Western Balkan countries, and the role of small arms in femicides.

Tijana is an intern at the Global Campus of Human Rights, where she works closely with Manuela Pegoraro, the Academic Partnership Manager, and the Academic Partnerships Department. In this capacity, she contributes to various cross-regional activities such as the International Conference and the Global Classroom, while actively engaging in initiatives that promote human rights education. In addition to this, Tijana also plays an active role in the promotion and social media communication of Global Campus activities, especially ones regarding the Global Campus Alumni.
